

1 COOLEY LLP
2 WILLIAM P. DONOVAN, JR.
(WDONOVAN@COOLEY.COM)
3 REBECCA L. TARNEJA (293461)
(RTARNEJA@COOLEY.COM)
1333 2nd Street
4 Suite 400
Santa Monica, CA 90401
5 Telephone: (310) 883-6400
Facsimile: (310) 883-6500
6

7 AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION FOUNDATION
JULIE A. EBENSTEIN (To Be Admitted Pro Hac Vice)
(JEBENSTEIN@ACLU.ORG)
8 125 Broad Street, 17th Floor
New York, NY 98164
9 Telephone: (212) 549-2500
Facsimile: (212) 549-2651
10

11 COOLEY LLP
WILLIAM P. DONOVAN, JR. (155881)
12 (WDONOVAN@COOLEY.COM)
REBECCA L. TARNEJA (293461)
13 (RTARNEJA@COOLEY.COM)
1333 2nd Street, Suite 400
14 Santa Monica, CA 90401
Telephone: (310) 883-6400
15 Facsimile: (310) 883-6500

16 Attorneys for Plaintiffs

17 SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
18 COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO
19

20 PETER LA FOLLETTE; and THE AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION OF 21 NORTHERN CALIFORNIA,

22 Plaintiffs,

23 v.

24 ALEX PADILLA, in his official capacity as Secretary of State of the State of California;
25 and WILLIAM F. ROUSSEAU, in his official capacity as Clerk-Recorder-Assessor-
26 Registrar of Voters for the County of Sonoma,

27 Defendants.
28

ELECTRONICALLY
FILED
*Superior Court of California,
County of San Francisco*
02/20/2018
Clerk of the Court
BY: ERNALYN BURA
Deputy Clerk

No. CPF 17-515931

PLAINTIFFS' REPLY
MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR WRIT OF MANDATE

Date: March 5, 2018
Time: 9:30 a.m.
Dept: 302
Judge: Hon. Harold Kahn
RES ID: 01040305-03

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Page

A.	Plaintiffs Have Standing to Bring this Facial Mandamus Challenge to § 3019(c)(2)	7
1.	Both Plaintiffs have public-interest standing to request mandamus	7
2.	Plaintiff ACLU-NC has taxpayer standing under C.C.P. § 526a.....	7
3.	Both Plaintiffs are beneficially interested in the outcome of this case	8
B.	Defendant Rousseau’s Compliance with the Elections Code Is Irrelevant.....	8
C.	The Law Does Not Require Voters to Sign Their Ballot Envelopes in a Particular Way	9
D.	Rejecting Ballots Without Notice and Opportunity to Cure Violates Due Process.....	10
1.	Section 3019(c)(2) is unconstitutional under established due-process rules	10
2.	Section 3019(c)(2) is invalid under the Anderson/Burdick test	13
E.	Rejecting Ballots Without Notice and Opportunity to Cure Violates Equal Protection	15
F.	§ 3019(c)(2) Violates Article II, Section 2.5 of the California Constitution	16
G.	The Court Can Order the Government to Comply with the Constitution	16

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Page(s)

Cases

Anderson v. Celebrezze , 460 U.S. 780 (1983)	passim
Associated Builders & Contractors, Inc. v. S.F. Airports Com. , 21 Cal. 4th 352 (1999)	8
Barnes v. Wong , 33 Cal. App. 4th 390 (1995)	16
Bell v. Marinko , 235 F. Supp. 2d 772 (N.D. Ohio 2002)	11
Blair v. Pitchess , 5 Cal. 3d 258 (1971)	8
Burdick v. Takushi , 504 U.S. 428 (1992)	passim
Butt v. State of California , 4 Cal. 4th 668 (1992)	16
Common Cause v. Bd. of Supers. , 49 Cal. 3d 432 (1989)	7
Communist Party of U.S. of Am. v. Peek , 20 Cal. 2d 536 (1942)	12
Conn v. City Council of City of Richmond , 17 Cal. App. 705 (1911)	9
Crawford v. Marion Cty. Election Bd. , 553 U.S. 181 (2008)	13
D.M. v. Dep't of Justice , 209 Cal. App. 4th 1439 (2012)	15
Doe v. Rowe , 156 F. Supp. 2d 35 (D.Me. 2001)	11
Edelstein v. City & Cty. of S.F. , 29 Cal. 4th 164 (2002)	11
Fenske v. Bd. of Admin. , 103 Cal. App. 3d 590 (1980)	8

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES
(continued)

	Page(s)
Fla. Democratic Party v. Detzner , No. 4:16CV607-MW/CAS, 2016 WL 6090943 (N.D. Fla. Oct. 16, 2016)	13
Gilbane Bldg. Co. v. Sup. Ct. , 223 Cal. App. 4th 1527 (2014)	8
In re Harris , 69 Cal. 2d 486 (1968)	11
John Doe No. 1 v. Reed , 561 U.S. 186 (2010)	12
Jolicoeur v. Mihaly , 5 Cal. 3d 565 (1971)	9, 16
Kendall v. Balcerzak , 650 F.3d 515 (4th Cir. 2011)	12
League of Women Voters of Ohio v. Brunner , 548 F.3d 463 (6th Cir. 2008)	11
Lemons v. Bradbury , 538 F.3d 1098 (9th Cir. 2008)	12
Ley v. Dominguez , 212 Cal. 587 (1931)	9
Lockyer v. City & Cty. of S.F. , 33 Cal. 4th 1055 (2004)	16
Mennonite Bd. of Missions v. Adams , 462 U.S. 791 (1983)	10
Miller v. Blackwell , 348 F. Supp. 2d 916 (S.D. Ohio 2004)	11
Ne. Ohio Coal. for the Homeless v. Husted , No. 2:06-CV-00896, 2014 WL 12738004 (S.D. Ohio Feb. 7, 2014)	13
Newland v. Bd. of Governors , 19 Cal. 3d 705 (1977)	15
Niere v. St. Louis Cty., Mo. , 305 F.3d 834 (8th Cir. 2002)	12

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES
(continued)

Page(s)

Paul v. Davis, 424 U.S. 693 (1976)	12
People v. McKee, 47 Cal. 4th 1172 (2010)	15
People v. Ramirez, 25 Cal. 3d 260 (1979)	12
People v. Smith, 212 Cal. App. 4th 1394 (2013)	16
Poag v. Winston, 195 Cal. App. 3d 1161 (1987).....	9
Raetzel v. Parks/Bellefont Absentee Election Bd., 762 F. Supp. 1354 (D. Ariz. 1990).....	8, 11
Save the Plastic Bag Coal. v. City of Manhattan Beach, 52 Cal. 4th 155 (2011)	7
Sec. Pac. Nat. Bank v. Chess, 58 Cal. App. 3d 555 (1976).....	9
Serv. Emps. Int’l Union, Local 1 v. Husted, 906 F. Supp. 2d 745 (S.D. Ohio 2012)	13
Tobe v. City of Santa Ana, 9 Cal. 4th 1069 (1995)	7
Van Atta v. Scott, 27 Cal. 3d 424 (1980)	7
Vasquez v. State of Cal., 105 Cal. App. 4th 849 (2003)	8
Walters v. Weed, 45 Cal. 3d 1 (1988)	9
Weiner v. Mullaney, 59 Cal. App. 2d 620 (1943).....	9
Wheelright v. Cty. of Marin, 2 Cal. 3d 448 (1970)	8

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES
(continued)

Page(s)

Young v. Gnoss , 7 Cal. 3d 18 (1972)	14, 16
--	--------

Zessar v. Helander , No. 05 C 1917, 2006 WL 642646 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 13, 2006), vacated as moot sub. nom. Zessar v. Keith , 536 F.3d 788 (7th Cir. 2008)	11
---	----

Statutes

Cal. Elec. Code
§ 354.5	9
§ 3000	9
§ 3011	9, 10
§ 3017	10
§ 3019	passim
§ 15372	14
§ 18578	14

Cal. Code Civ. Proc.
§ 526a	7

Other Authorities

Black's Law Dictionary	9
------------------------------	---

CAL. CONST.,
Art. I, § 7	13
Art. I, § 24	12
Art. II, § 2.5	16
Art. IV, § 8(c)(1)	14

1 Every Court that has addressed the issue at bar has held that allowing elections officials to 2 reject vote-by-mail ballots or to otherwise disenfranchise voters without providing notice and an
3 opportunity to be heard is unconstitutional; they have reached this conclusion under traditional due-
4 process rules and under the Anderson/Burdick test. The Government has not provided any reason
5 for this Court to depart from this unanimous line of decisions, much less a reason that § 3019¹
6 comports with the California Constitution’s guarantee that every properly cast vote will count.

7 A. Plaintiffs Have Standing to Bring this Facial Mandamus Challenge to § 3019(c)(2).

8 Both Plaintiffs have standing as citizens and as persons directly affected by § 3019; ACLU-
9 NC also has taxpayer standing. Standing under any one doctrine is sufficient. Tobe v. City of Santa
10 Ana, 9 Cal. 4th 1069, 1086 (1995); Common Cause v. Bd. of Supers., 49 Cal. 3d 432, 439 (1989).

11 1. Both Plaintiffs have public-interest standing to request mandamus.

12 Defendants’ standing argument ignores the rule of public-interest standing in mandamus 13 cases: “where the question is one of public right and the object of the mandamus is to procure the 14 enforcement of a public duty, the petitioner need not show that he has any legal or special interest
15 in the result, since it is sufficient that he is interested as a citizen in having the laws executed and 16 the duty in question enforced.” Save the Plastic Bag Coal. v. City of Manhattan Beach, 52 Cal. 4th
17 155, 166 (2011). In fact, our high court has specifically held that individuals and organizations have 18 public-interest standing to seek a writ of mandate to compel officials to comply with elections laws.
19 Common Cause, 49 Cal. 3d at 439. Plaintiffs here have standing for this same reason.

20 2. Plaintiff ACLU-NC has taxpayer standing under C.C.P. § 526a.

21 In Cause of Action 4, Plaintiff ACLU-NC charges that all Defendants are “illegally
22 expending public funds by performing their duties in violation of the” Constitutions, citing Code
23 of Civil Procedure § 526a. (Pet., ¶ 71.) Section 526a allows a taxpayer “to challenge governmental 24 action which would otherwise go unchallenged in the courts because of the standing requirement.”
25 Van Atta v. Scott, 27 Cal. 3d 424, 447 (1980). The statute thus gives taxpayers standing to sue 26 government officials for mandamus (and other equitable) relief to prevent them from violating the 27 constitution and to challenge the constitutionality of a statute. See id.; Tobe, 9 Cal. 4th at 1086;

28 ¹ Unless otherwise indicated, all statutory references are to the California Elections Code.

1 Blair v. Pitchess, 5 Cal. 3d 258, 268-69 (1971). The statute authorizes suits against “all state and
2 local agencies and officials.” Vasquez v. State of Cal., 105 Cal. App. 4th 849, 854 (2003).

3 A membership organization like the ACLU-NC has taxpayer standing if “at least one of its 4 members” has taxpayer standing. Gilbane Bldg. Co. v. Sup. Ct., 223 Cal. App. 4th 1527, 1531
5 (2014). Recent ACLU-NC Board chair Beverly Tucker is a California resident who has been a
6 member of the ACLU-NC since 1988 and has been assessed and paid property taxes for more than 7 5 years. (Tucker Decl. ¶¶ 1-5.) She, and thus the ACLU-NC, therefore have taxpayer standing.

8 3. Both Plaintiffs are beneficially interested in the outcome of this case.

9 The beneficial-interest requirement is the same as the federal standing requirement:
10 plaintiffs must show that they or their members are at risk of being injured by the challenged law.
11 Associated Builders & Contractors, Inc. v. S.F. Airports Com., 21 Cal. 4th 352, 361-62 (1999).
12 Because a procedural-due-process violation is itself an injury, an eligible voter who was 13 disenfranchised, without notice or an opportunity to cure, has standing to challenge the statute
14 authorizing this procedure, regardless of whether his ballot is likely to be rejected in the future.
15 Raetzl v. Parks/Bellemont Absentee Election Bd., 762 F. Supp. 1354, 1355-56 (D. Ariz. 1990).
16 Plaintiff La Follette thus has direct standing. And because least some of ACLU-NC’s over 136,000
17 California members will be affected by § 3019, ACLU-NC does too. (See Tucker Decl. ¶ 6.)

18 B. Defendant Rousseau’s Compliance with the Elections Code Is Irrelevant.

19 Defendant Rousseau claims that he correctly rejected Mr. La Follette’s ballot in 2016
20 because he must enforce state statutes unless and until a court holds them unconstitutional. (Sonoma
21 Opp’n at 9-11.) But Plaintiffs are not suing to overturn what happened in 2016; they want to stop
22 future violations. Thus, Mr. Rousseau’s discussion simply shows why this lawsuit is necessary—
23 he, and all state and local officials, will continue to follow § 3019(c)(2) until this Court holds it
24 unconstitutional. See Fenske v. Bd. of Admin., 103 Cal. App. 3d 590, 595 (1980). Further, Mr.
25 Rousseau’s discussion of the Wheelright case, which did not involve a constitutional challenge to 26 an elections statute, would be relevant only if Plaintiffs were accusing him of failing to comply
27 with his statutory duties, which they are not. See Wheelright v. Cty. of Marin, 2 Cal. 3d 448 (1970).
28 The California Supreme Court has specifically held that a mandamus action against local elections officials is the proper way to challenge an unconstitutional elections statute and require elections officials to abide by the constitution. Jolicoeur v. Mihaly, 5 Cal. 3d 565, 570 n.2 (1971).

C. The Law Does Not Require Voters to Sign Their Ballot Envelopes in a Particular Way.

As an initial matter, all of the Secretary’s arguments are built on the false premise that California requires voters to sign their ballots “consistent with their signature on file.” (See Sec’y Opp’n at 12, 19.) The Elections Code requires only that vote-by-mail voters sign the envelope in their “own handwriting,” without imposing any other requirement on the signature. § 3011(a)(7).² When no statute requires electors to sign a petition in any particular way, any form of a signature is proper. Ley v. Dominguez, 212 Cal. 587, 597-98 (1931) (“The charter merely requires that the petition be signed by registered qualified electors, and is silent as to the form the signature must take. Thus, in Conn v. City Council, 17 Cal. App. 705[], it was held that a person could sign a petition, using the initials of his given names, although, when he had registered, he had used his full given names.”).³ Although the Elections Code has certain requirements for signature stamps or marks (i.e., an “x” or cross), it does not otherwise limit the ways in which voters may sign their names. See § 354.5.⁴ There is no indication that the Legislature intended to overturn the longstanding rule that any form of a person’s name—including initials—is valid as a signature.

Moreover, § 3011(a)(7) must be read broadly in favor of the right to vote. First, the Elections Code says so: “This division shall be liberally construed in favor of the vote by mail voter.” § 3000. Second, longstanding precedent requires that “no construction of an election law should be indulged that would disenfranchise any voter if the law is reasonably susceptible to any other meaning.” Walters v. Weed, 45 Cal. 3d 1, 14 (1988). Discarding votes based on a non-existent requirement that people sign in a certain way is the opposite of what this rule requires.⁵

² Technically, the law does not even require this: it requires that a voter sign the envelope, and that the envelope bear a warning that “that the voter must sign the envelope in his or her own handwriting in order for the ballot to be counted.” § 3011(a)(7), (11).

³ See also, e.g., Sec. Pac. Nat. Bank v. Chess, 58 Cal. App. 3d 555, 561 (1976) (“a party may adopt any form of symbol as its signature for a particular transaction.”); Poag v. Winston, 195 Cal. App. 3d 1161, 1179 (1987) (“The essential element is an intent to appropriate the name as a signature.... Hence, even initials may qualify.”); Weiner v. Mullaney, 59 Cal. App. 2d 620, 634 (1943) (“Signature by initials [is] sufficient under the Statute of Frauds and the Statute of Wills.”).

⁴ Black’s Law Dictionary (Mark: “A character, usually in the form of a cross, made as a substitute for his signature by a person who cannot write....”).

⁵ Thus, although the Government spends its briefing kicking up dust about Mr. La Follette’s signatures appearing to be different, it concedes that the ballot submitted was his, signed in his own

1 D. Rejecting Ballots Without Notice and Opportunity to Cure Violates Due Process.

2 Instead of addressing Plaintiffs’ due-process argument, the Government seeks to apply a
3 balancing test applied in some voting-rights cases to determine which level of scrutiny to apply.
4 (Sec’y Opp’n at 12-17.) The test does not apply here; but even if it applies, § 3019(c) fails it.

5 1. Section 3019(c)(2) is unconstitutional under established due-process rules.

6 Due process requires that before depriving a person of a protected interest—or in California,
7 a statutorily or constitutionally protected interest—the government must provide notice and 8 opportunity to contest the deprivation. (Mot. at 11-13.) The Government suggests it has provided 9 due process to voters whose ballots are rejected because (i) ballot envelopes must contains a
10 statement that “the voter must sign ... in his or her own handwriting,” § 3011(a), and (ii) elections
11 officials must eventually provide “online access” to voters “confirm[ing] the receipt of voted vote
12 by mail ballots,” § 3017(c). (Sec’y Opp’n at 12-13.) But as to the first, signing in one’s own
13 handwriting informs voters only that they must sign the ballots themselves, not that the handwriting
14 must match a signature on file. And access to an online database after the election is neither
15 individualized nor timely. (See Mot. at 18); Mennonite Bd. of Missions v. Adams, 462 U.S. 791, 16 799-800 (1983).⁶ In addition, § 3017(c) requires the database to state only whether the ballot was 17 received, not whether it was accepted, which does nothing to fix the notice problem at issue here.
18 And the Government’s suggestion that voters could “cure” before an election by “updat[ing] their 19 signature if they believe it has changed,” § 3019(a), would improperly shift the burden to provide 20 notice from the government to the individual, and would not address the disenfranchisement of 21 voters who had no idea their signature appeared different or who had inherently variable signatures
22 (e.g., due to disability). Mennonite, 462 U.S. at 799-800.⁷

23 The Government also suggests § 3019 is constitutional because Los Angeles and Sonoma
24 notify some signature-mismatch voters and allow them to cure. (Logan Decl. ¶ 6; Thompson-

25 hand, and timely submitted in compliance with every provision of the Elections Code. (See 26 Monagas Decl., Ex. A (La Follette Depo. Tr. at 35:8-16) (“It was your own signature? Yes”);
Tarneja Decl., Ex. D (La Follette Depo. Tr. at 65:20-67:1, 71:24-72:6).)

27 ⁶ Indeed, Mr. La Follette would have cured his signature in the November 2016 election if he was given timely, individualized notice. (Tarneja Decl., Ex. D at 67:2-68-22.)

28 ⁷ Los Angeles additionally appears, although not required to do so, to advise voters to sign as they did when they registered to vote. (Logan Decl. ¶ 4.) There is no indication that other counties do this; Sonoma County’s envelope contains no such advisement. (See Tarneja Decl., Ex. C.)

1 Stadler Decl. ¶ 2.) But even assuming this is lawful it does not fix the statute, because due process
2 requires that the “statute authorizing the deprivation must explicitly provide a fair opportunity for 3 the defendant to be heard.” In re Harris, 69 Cal. 2d 486, 490 (1968). Notice cannot depend on 4 “chance or ... grace.” Id. Moreover, that some voters receive notice and an opportunity to cure
5 means that other voters—those who live in other counties or who do not deliver their ballots by an 6 unspecified deadline—are arbitrarily discriminated against. This in itself is unconstitutional. See
7 League of Women Voters of Ohio v. Brunner, 548 F.3d 463, 477 (6th Cir. 2008).

8 The Government’s real argument, of course, is that the Court should ignore these 9 fundamental due-process rules and instead apply the Anderson/Burdick test, which it calls the 10 Burdick test. See Edelstein v. City & Cty. of S.F., 29 Cal. 4th 164, 168 (2002) (discussing Anderson 11 v. Celebrezze, 460 U.S. 780 (1983) and Burdick v. Takushi, 504 U.S. 428 (1992)). But although 12 courts apply this test when addressing some challenges to elections-related laws, Anderson/Burdick
13 does not displace the established rule that due process requires notice and an opportunity to be 14 heard before the government deprives a person of a fundamental (or, under the California
15 Constitution, a constitutional or statutory) right. The Government admits that cases overturning
16 similar elections laws as violating due process did not apply the Anderson/Burdick test. (Sec’y 17 Opp’n at 16-17 (citing Zessar v. Helander, 2006 WL 642646, at *5 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 13, 2006),
18 vacated as moot sub. nom. Zessar v. Keith, 536 F.3d 788 (7th Cir. 2008) and Raetzel, 762 F. Supp.
19 at 1358).)⁸ Thus, contrary to the Secretary’s claim, these cases are not distinguishable; instead, they 20 demonstrate that the traditional due process requirements—notice and the opportunity to be 21 heard—apply when the government would reject a mail-in ballot for signature mismatch.
22 Numerous other cases, too, apply the bedrock due-process principles of notice and an opportunity
23 to cure, rather than the Anderson/Burdick test, to denials of the right to vote. See, e.g., Miller v.
24 Blackwell, 348 F. Supp. 2d 916, 921-22 (S.D. Ohio 2004); Bell v. Marinko, 235 F. Supp. 2d 772, 25 777 (N.D. Ohio 2002) (“An elector cannot be disenfranchised without notice and an opportunity to 26 be heard.”); Doe v. Rowe, 156 F. Supp. 2d 35, 48-51 (D.Me. 2001) (“Maine’s current voting

27 ⁸ Although Raetzel was decided before Burdick, it was decided nine years after Anderson, which 28 set forth the same standard. Burdick, 504 U.S. at 438 (“The appropriate standard ... is set forth in Anderson.”).

1 restriction deprives [certain] mentally ill persons ... of the right to vote without adequate notice
2 and an opportunity to be heard in violation of the Due Process Clause”).

3 Even if all of these courts are wrong and federal due process claims should be analyzed
4 under the Anderson/Burdick test, that does not mean California claims should be, because the 5 “federal approach [] undervalues the important due process interest in recognizing the dignity and 6 worth of the individual by treating him as an equal, fully participating and responsible member of 7 society.” People v. Ramirez, 25 Cal. 3d 260, 267 (1979). This is itself a “cogent reason” not to 8 follow federal law on this point. See Edelstein, 29 Cal. 4th at 179; see CAL. CONST., art. I, § 24. In 9 California, it is well-settled that “before the constitutional right to vote may be taken away from a 10 citizen, he must be given an opportunity to be heard in his own behalf.” Communist Party of U.S.
11 of Am. v. Peek, 20 Cal. 2d 536, 555 (1942).

12 In any event, the only procedural due process case the Government cites for its contention
13 that Burdick applies is inapposite because it does not even involve voting, much less rejecting 14 ballots. Lemons v. Bradbury, 538 F.3d 1098, 1101 (9th Cir. 2008). Instead, Lemons addresses the 15 right to sign a petition, which, although it may implicate the right to vote, does not result in 16 disenfranchisement and is not itself a fundamental right for purposes of federal due process. See,
17 e.g., John Doe No. 1 v. Reed, 561 U.S. 186, 212 (2010) (Sotomayor, J., concurring); Kendall v.
18 Balcerzak, 650 F.3d 515, 523-24 (4th Cir. 2011); Niere v. St. Louis Cty., Mo., 305 F.3d 834, 838
19 (8th Cir. 2002). Thus, federal due process does not require notice and an opportunity to be heard 20 before the government invalidates petition signatures. See Paul v. Davis, 424 U.S. 693, 694 (1976).
21 Indeed, Lemons itself distinguishes petition signatures from vote-by-mail signatures, concluding 22 that the many “differences between referendum petitions and vote-by-mail ballots justify the 23 minimal burden imposed on plaintiffs’ rights [to sign a petition].” Id. at 1104.⁹ Here, however, the 24 government is denying voters’ their fundamental right to vote by rejecting their ballots without

25 ⁹ Because the law at issue in Lemons did not deny anyone the right to vote, the court concluded that 26 the burden on the right was “minimal.” 538 F.3d at 1104. Referendum petitions were also distinct 27 from vote-by-mail ballots because: (i) the “administrative burden of verifying a [] petition signature 28 is significantly greater than the burden associated with verifying a vote-by-mail election ballot signature”; (ii) “fraudulent signatures are less likely in vote-by-mail elections” than for petitions; and (iii) the petition cover sheets instructed people to sign as they had when they registered, which is not generally the case for vote-by-mail ballots. See id. This is instructive here.

1 providing notice and an opportunity to be heard. As the cases confronting this denial of due process
2 make clear, no fact-specific balancing test is needed to apply the rule that this violates federal due
3 process, let alone California's broader due process protections, which Lemons does not address.

4 2. Section 3019(c)(2) is invalid under the Anderson/Burdick test.

5 In any event, § 3019(c)(2) fails Anderson/Burdick: rejecting a person's vote without notice
6 or an opportunity to cure is "a severe burden on the right to vote." Fla. Democratic Party v. Detzner,
7 No. 4:16CV607-MW/CAS, 2016 WL 6090943, at *6 (N.D. Fla. Oct. 16, 2016) (applying
8 Anderson). "Burdens are severe if they go beyond the merely inconvenient." Crawford v. Marion
9 Cty. Election Bd., 553 U.S. 181, 205 (2008) (Scalia, J., concurring). The secret, incurable rejection
10 of a properly cast ballot is far more than inconvenient; it is the complete denial of the right to vote.
11 "Disqualification of one's ballot is no victimless legal abstraction; it is disenfranchisement, the loss
12 of the fundamental right to participate in the democratic political process."¹⁰ Thus, the percentage
13 of voters whose votes are rejected is irrelevant; the Constitutions protect individual rights,
14 providing due process to "any person" or "a person." U.S. CONST., amend. XIV; CAL. CONST., art.
15 I, § 7. That the government allows others to vote is cold comfort to the thousands disenfranchised.
16 Cf. Detzner, 2016 WL 6090943, at *6 ("If disenfranchising thousands of eligible voters does not 17 amount to a severe burden on the right to vote, then this Court is at a loss as to what does.").

18 Under Anderson/Burdick, "when [voting] rights are subjected to severe restrictions, the 19 regulation must be narrowly drawn to advance a state interest of compelling importance." Burdick,
20 504 U.S. at 434. Although preventing voter fraud is a legitimate interest, refusing to provide voters
21 whose signatures are deemed not to match with notice and an opportunity to cure is not narrowly
22 tailored to this interest. (Mot. at 15.) Indeed, Los Angeles, "the largest electoral jurisdiction in the 23 United States," with some 5.2 million registered voters, notifies voters of signature mismatches and 24 allows them to cure when it is administratively convenient to do so. (Logan Decl. ¶¶ 3, 6.) Sonoma
25 County does the same. (Thompson-Stadler Decl. ¶ 2.) There is no indication that this has led, or 26 could lead, to any sort of fraud. Indeed, there is no evidence that any of the tens of thousands of

27 ¹⁰ Serv. Emps. Int'l Union, Local 1 v. Husted, 906 F. Supp. 2d 745, 750 (S.D. Ohio 2012), vacated
28 as a result of settlement sub nom. Ne. Ohio Coal. for the Homeless v. Husted, 2014 WL 12738004
(S.D. Ohio Feb. 7, 2014).

1 vote-by-mail ballots rejected each election cycle has even resulted in a prosecution, even though
2 “fraudulently signing” another’s name on the identification envelope is a felony. § 18578. Rather,
3 the Secretary’s request, in response to this lawsuit, that the Legislature amend § 3019 to require
4 notice and an opportunity to cure before rejecting ballots for signature mismatch up to the date the 5 election is certified suggests that he understands that this will not lead to any sort of fraud or other
6 problems. (See Tarneja Decl., Ex. A at 2 (SB 759), Ex. B at 1, 6.)¹¹

7 Thus, the only real reason the Secretary resists, in this litigation, requiring counties to do
8 this uniformly is administrative convenience. But that cannot justify deprivation of the right to vote.
9 (Mot. at 16); see Young v. Gnos, 7 Cal. 3d 18, 28 (1972). And regardless, Defendants have not 10 shown any undue burden. Although the Los Angeles Registrar states that an opportunity to cure
11 within 8 days of the election would be burdensome because ballots may not be processed for several 12 days after the election, Plaintiffs ask for an opportunity to cure within 8 days of the election or 13 “before the results are certified,” which is 30 days after the election. (See Mot. at 19); Elec. Code
14 § 15372(a). The Government does not suggest that allowing voters to cure within 30 days would 15 be unduly burdensome. Nor does Sonoma suggest that even an 8-day cure period would cause any 16 problems. (See Thompson-Stadler Decl.) And again, the Secretary acknowledges that the burdens
17 will not be undue by sponsoring a bill to require the notice and an opportunity to cure that Plaintiffs 18 request. In fact, Senate floor analysis of the bill states that the statewide costs of doing this “is 19 unknown, but could exceed $50,000 in a given year.” (See Tarneja Decl., Ex. B at 6.) This is not 20 an undue burden when balanced against the voting rights of thousands of Californians.

21 Even if the Government were correct that the complete denial of thousands of votes is not 22 a severe restriction and a lower burden of review were to apply, § 3019(c)(2) would still be 23 unconstitutional. Under Anderson/Burdick, a law that imposes any burden on voting must satisfy a
24 balancing test that weighs the severity of the burden against the “precise interests” the state proffers
25 as justifications for the law. Burdick, 504 U.S. at 434. “However slight that burden may appear, ...
26 it must be justified by relevant and legitimate state interests sufficiently weighty to justify the

27
28 ¹¹ This proposed bill does not affect the need for a mandate from this Court: even if it is enacted, it will not go into effect until 2019 at the earliest. See CAL. CONST., art. IV, § 8(c)(1).

1 limitation.” Crawford, 553 U.S. at 191; see Burdick, 504 U.S. at 439 (government must justify even
2 “slight” burden). The “Court must not only determine the legitimacy and strength of each of [the 3 State’s] interests; it also must consider the extent to which those interests make it necessary to 4 burden the plaintiff’s rights.” Anderson, 460 U.S. at 789. The ultimate question is whether the 5 government’s “legitimate interests” “outweigh” the burden the law imposes on the voters. Burdick,
6 504 U.S. at 440. As discussed above, refusing to provide notice and an opportunity to cure “has no
7 rational relationship” to preventing fraud. Detzner, 2016 WL 6090943, at *7; (see Mot. at 15). And 8 the Government has failed to show that providing these basic due-process protections would be so
9 burdensome as to outweigh the complete denial of the right to vote for thousands of Californians.

10 E. Rejecting Ballots Without Notice and Opportunity to Cure Violates Equal Protection.

11 The Government’s claim that voters whose ballots are rejected for signature mismatch are 12 not similarly situated to those who fail to sign their ballots is wrong. The proper test is “whether 13 two classes that are different in some respects are sufficiently similar with respect to the laws in 14 question to require the government to justify its differential treatment of these classes.” People v.
15 McKee, 47 Cal. 4th 1172, 1202 (2010). Both classes comprise eligible voters who have submitted 16 vote-by-mail ballots; the only difference is people like Mr. La Follette have fully complied with 17 the law, whereas those who failed to sign have not. The government cannot treat a person who 18 complied with the law worse than it treats a person who failed to do so any more than it can treat
19 somebody who commits a minor violation worse than it treats somebody who commits a more
20 serious one. See Newland v. Bd. of Governors, 19 Cal. 3d 705, 707 (1977). Doing so “is irrational—21 indeed, perverse—and constitutionally impermissible.” D.M. v. Dep’t of Justice, 209 Cal. App. 4th
22 1439, 1451 (2012). The difference between the two classes therefore cannot “justify its differential 23 treatment of” them. McKee, 47 Cal. 4th at 1202. The Secretary’s assertion that people whose 24 signatures are rejected are not similarly situated to those whose signatures are accepted is even 25 weaker because it rests on the false premise that the law requires voters to sign in a specific way.

26 On the merits, the Secretary’s claim that § 3019(c)(2) passes Anderson/Burdick review is 27 wrong for the same reasons discussed above: whatever the standard of review, the Government has 28 failed to show that its interest in rejecting ballots without notice and an opportunity to cure outweigh

1 the rights of thousands of Californians to have their votes counted.

2 F. § 3019(c)(2) Violates Article II, Section 2.5 of the California Constitution.

3 The Government’s argument that Article II § 2.5 allows it to reject ballots without notice
4 and an opportunity to cure rests on its bizarre contention that when an election worker decides that
5 a voter’s signature does not compare, that means that the voter has failed to cast a lawful vote.
6 (Sec’y Opp’n at 19.) This is precisely the type of disenfranchising sophistry that the people voted
7 to eradicate when they enacted Article II § 2.5 in response to the Supreme Court’s 2000 decision
8 in Bush v. Gore. (See RJN at 48.) And the notion that this constitutional provision—enacted because 9 the voters were dissatisfied with that decision—does no more than perpetuate the Anderson/Burdick
10 test makes no sense at all, because initiatives are passed to change existing law, not to maintain the 11 status quo. See People v. Smith, 212 Cal. App. 4th 1394, 1403-04 (2013) (judicial presumption).

12 As discussed above, California law requires only that vote-by-mail voters sign the envelope
13 in their “own handwriting”; any form of voters’ names may be used as a signature. See § C, above.
14 Thus eligible voters who sign the ballot envelopes themselves cast valid votes, even if the envelope
15 signatures do not look like one on file. (Mot. at 6-7, 9-10.)

16 Under the unambiguous language of Art. II § 2.5, voters who sign their ballot envelopes in 17 their own hand have cast their votes “in accordance with the law of this State shall have th[ose]
18 vote[s] counted.” CAL. CONST., art. II, § 2.5. Elections officials cannot reject them without at least 19 providing voters notice and an opportunity to show that they complied with California law.

20 G. The Court Can Order the Government to Comply with the Constitution.

21 Mandamus may issue to invalidate an unconstitutional statute and require elections
22 officials to comply with the Constitution. Jolicoeur, 5 Cal. 3d at 570.¹² Thus, the Supreme Court
23 has, in a mandamus action, invalidated a 54-day voter residency requirement and ordered elections
24 officials to instead abide by a 30-day requirement, even if it meant violating statutory obligations.
25 Young, 7 Cal. 3d at 28. This Court has ample authority to grant the requested relief, or whatever 26 relief it deems appropriate. See Lockyer v. City & Cty. of S.F., 33 Cal. 4th 1055, 1113 (2004).

27 ¹² The Government’s cases do not support their cramped view of judicial authority. Butt v. State of 28 California held that a court’s “equitable power to enforce the State’s constitutional obligations” allowed it to “take over [a school] District’s government.” 4 Cal. 4th 668, 695 (1992), while Barnes
v. Wong simply held that the case failed on its merits. 33 Cal. App. 4th 390, 395 (1995).

1 Dated: February 20, 2018

COOLEY LLP

2
3 By: /s/ William P. Donovan, Jr.

4 William P. Donovan, Jr. (155881)

5 Rebecca L. Tarneja (293461)

6 1333 2nd Street, Suite 400

7 Santa Monica, CA 90401

8 Telephone: (310) 883-6400

9 Facsimile: (310) 883-6500

10 Dated: February 20, 2018

AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION
FOUNDATION OF NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

11 By: /s/ Michael T. Risher

12 Michael T. Risher (191627)

13 Raul L. Macias (293208)

14 39 Drumm Street, 2nd Floor

15 San Francisco, CA 94111

16 Telephone: (415) 621-2493

17 Facsimile: (415) 255-8437

18 AMERICAN CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION
FOUNDATION

19 Julie A. Ebenstein⁺

20 125 Broad Street, 17th Floor

21 New York, New York 98164

22 Telephone: (212) 549-2500

23 Facsimile: (212) 549-2651

24 Attorneys for Plaintiffs

25 ⁺To Be Admitted Pro Hac Vice